

Bridgestone inspiring Australia's future sports stars with 'Meet with a Champ' initiative

World's largest tyre and rubber company helps South Australian Olympic Council connect students with Olympians

ADELAIDE, South Australia (October 27, 2017) -- Bridgestone Australia (Bridgestone), a subsidiary of the world's largest tyre and rubber company and a Worldwide Olympic Partner, looks to light the fire inside Australia's next generation of sporting stars through its involvement with the South Australian Olympic Council's 'Meet with a Champ' initiative.

Australia's most trusted tyre brand has partnered with the South Australian Olympic Council to support two of the 'Meet with a Champ' sessions at Brighton Secondary School on Friday, 3 November and Cardijn Secondary College in Noarlunga Downs on Thursday, 9 November.

Bridgestone proudly became a Worldwide Olympic Partner in 2014 with a focus on empowering people to overcome adversity and chase their dreams. The company's longterm commitment to the Olympic Movement through to 2024 is aligned with its commitment to community service, environmental stewardship, and respect for diversity -- which are core tenants of the Olympic Charter. The 'Meet with a Champ' initiative is one of the many ways that Bridgestone is bringing these commitments to life.

"At Bridgestone, we go beyond tyres to support society in a truly meaningful way, and being involved with the Olympic Movement is another fantastic opportunity to do this," said Andrew Moffatt, Bridgestone Australia and New Zealand Managing Director. "The 'Meet with a Champ' concept allows us to take our Worldwide Olympic Partnership to the next level in supporting and encouraging young Australians."

The 'Meet with a Champ' sessions will give Year Nine and Ten students from both schools the opportunity to hear from Olympic Pole Vaulter Kurtis Marschall. Brighton Secondary School will also hear from legendary Opals Basketballer Rachael Sporn OAM.

"The chance to meet current and former Olympians is a great way to encourage students to chase their dreams," Mr Moffatt added. "Bridgestone's Worldwide Olympic Partnership is one of a host of initiatives that the company has implemented over the years, to ensure its brand is synonymous with more than just tyres."

In addition to the company's position as a Worldwide Olympic Partner, Bridgestone Corporation became the first Founding Partner of the Olympic Channel in August 2016. Through its four-year partnership, Bridgestone is helping to support the ground-breaking digital platform on its mission to celebrate the Olympic Movement and the world's greatest athletes every day of the year.
